Claysville & Ruckerville: Historically Black Neighborhoods in Paris, Kentucky

Claysville and Ruckerville sprang up following the Civil War as communities for freed slaves. From maps and public lists of the time, we know names and locations of people who lived there and we've drawn on community memories to provide details of day to day living. On display through December 20, 2014.

Historic Painters of Kentucky & the Ohio River Valley: The Barbara & Henry Hinkle Collection

The last days of the nineteenth century were a time of fervent growth in Kentucky and the Ohio River Valley both industrially and culturally. This first ever showing of the Hinkle Collection brings together familiar and not so well known painters like Sawyer, Alke, Joiner, Moore and Thum as a reflection of this creative period. On display through August 31, 2014. Catalogs are still available!

- ◆ Thanks to Graham & Susan Ferguson-Wheeler for a splendid Box Supper!
- ◆ Thanks to Henry & Barbara Hinkle & curator Estill Pennington for Historic Painters!
- ◆ Thanks to summer art teachers Marie Gregory, Ann Fuller & Rogers Barde!
- ◆ Thanks to Mary Ann Hayes for making the June events happen so smoothly!
