To Our Friends at Historic Paris Bourbon County:

In the excitement of the moment, a few important thank yous should have been said, but we were just too busy being pleased and proud to express ourselves properly at the time. Thank you for the recognition of our efforts in Historic Preservation. Winning the Mary Spears VanMeter Award was something I (Kay) always hoped for. You fulfilled my dream. Thank you for the recognition and for the lovely julep cup. Working on the houses is what Ed & I like to do the most. It is our happy place!

We appreciate the fact that our son, Ted Thomas and our daughter, Jenny Freeland were there to share the evening. We should have introduced them. They played a big role in the restoration of the house at Chesapeake City, MD. Ted now lives in Rome, GA with his wife Kristin who teaches pre school. Their children are Tempest (junior at Shorter University), Elinor (9) and Will (6). Ted teaches Technical Theatre at Shorter University. Jenny lives in Nashville with her husband, Mark (Endodontist) and two sons Andrew and Ned. Jenny is a very involved volunteer in her community. Andrew is sophomore at Furman University and Ned is a junior at Montgomery Bell Academy. Ned is going to become an Eagle Scout August 27.

We should have recognized HPBC Board Members Jim Hodsdon and Ron Carter, who worked on the restoration at Historic Pleasant Green and also at Ewalt's Crossroads. Ron restored the fireplaces and repointed and Jim was a principal on the carpentry. Both continue to play those roles.

Thanks also to Betsy Kuster, who wrote the kind introduction. It is remarkable that she could remember details that happened almost 40 years ago. And much appreciation to Allison and Doug Cox for the dinner that evening—we love the HPBC pins. George Kissick took great pictures which put us on the front page of The Bourbon County Citizen. Kathy Carter wrote a very flattering article. The lady at the drug store said, "I know who you are. You are the winners in the newspaper." And thanks for all the pictures on Facebook. We had no idea how pleasant and rewarding all the nice comments on social media could be. All in all you made us very happy and grateful. It was one of the best evenings of our life. Thank You.

Kay Thomas
