Chuck Welsko, PhD on Civil War Governors of Kentucky, Richard Hawes & Bourbon County

October 13 | 6:00 PM | via Zoom

HOPEWELL VIRTUAL PROGRAM

Chuck Welsko, the Civil War Governors of Kentucky Project Manager will join us for a virtual discussion. Welsko will explore Richard Hawes' role as the 2nd Confederate Provisional Governor of Kentucky, his return to Bourbon County in 1866, and how the decisions he made as County Judge Executive undermined efforts of the Freedman's Bureau and had long-lasting impacts on the lives of African-Americans in Bourbon County.

ADDRESS SERVICE REQUESTED

COLLECTIONS ORGANIZATION!

Thanks to the generosity of several of our donors the Hopewell Museum has been working behind the scenes to purchase much needed carts and archival supplies for our collections. This is allowing us to create additional storage in collections for future acquisitions and protect them using proper archival boxes and folders. This reorganization also makes it easier to share important historical materials with researchers and school groups.

MATTHEW HARRIS JOUETT

1788 - 1827

His Life & Work

Paris author and art historian Estill Curtis Pennington has published Matthew Harris Jouett: His Life and Works. This book is the product of six years of intense research, travel, and writing. The book shares portraits Jouett painted and a biographical essay that details his short (1788-1827) but prolific life. The book is published under the auspices of Historic Paris-Bourbon County, Inc. It is available for purchase in our gift shop for $50. Members receive a 10% discount.
